Soviet Premier Is Enchanted by San Francisco

Khrushchev Once
Again Stressing
Peace, Friendship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev, who became so charmed with this place that he dined like its Chamber of Commerce, leaves today for the Middle West and the celebrated corn fields of Iowa.

Ahead is an agricultural schedule that should keep the onetime sheepherder in the same gay, peace-talking mood he was in all day Monday.

In Des Moines he will tour the city, stop at a farm implement plant, speak at a dinner tonight and then Wednesday visit a farm at Coon Rapids, to see how tall that tall corn grows.

Khrushchev is a man of many moods, but Monday he was jovial and joking. He didn't lose his temper once. Over and over again he stressed the words peace and friendship.

He said he and President Eisenhower had begun frank discussions in Washington, and he hoped the second round of talks beginning Friday would bring the two countries substantially closer together.

Khrushchev was at his light-hearted best in a farewell dinner winding up a hectic three-day stay on the West Coast.

His audience cheered enthusiastically when he said: "The people of San Francisco have positively charmed us. I felt as if I were among true friends who are thinking the same thoughts as the people in the Soviet Union."

All cities he has visited were good, Khrushchev said, but, ah, San Francisco "the best of all," he said.

Khrushchev once again put in a plug for his total disarmament plan, and again called for peace treaties with Communist ruled-East Germany.

But there wasn't a threat anywhere in his words.

Once he said of the Soviet system: "We want to build a society under which every man will be a brother of his neighbor, where there will be no enmity, there will be complete equality; as, by the way, was preached by Christ. "And if you do look into our philosophy you will see that we have taken a lot of Christ's precepts, regarding, for instance, love for one's neighbors and others. Such is our aim."

Earlier he went a step further than Communists usually do when they discuss the United States. The Communist line has been that the American people may want peace but their government doesn't.

But here was Khrushchev saying: "We want to have friendship with the American people and the American government, and I draw no line of distinction between the people and the government of the United States."

15 Cent Cut In Pay Asked By Railroads

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's railroads have proposed that their 550,000 unionized non-operating employees take a 15 cents an hour wage cut.

The proposal Monday was similar to one made last spring by the railroads to unions with jurisdiction over their operating employees. The operating unions had asked for wage raises earlier this year.

Ted Short, chairman of the Western Carriers' Conference Committee, said the 15 cent cut would put non-operating workers' straight time wage into the 1953 relationship with that of workers in other industries. The committee is one of three groups negotiating wages for the railroads.

The railroads said their proposal would cut payrolls nearly one billion dollars. Their unions' demands would cost them 750 million dollars more.

Non-operating workers are those not directly involved with the movement of trains. They include clerks, station agents, telegraphers and similar personnel. Operating employees are engineers, firemen, conductors, switchmen and trainmen.

Bid For U.N. Seat Expected to Fail

Assembly Set for Vote on Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Red China's bid for a U.N. seat is expected to fail for the ninth straight year today.

Observers predicted the 82-nation General Assembly would vote to shelve the thorny East-West issue for another year.

The Assembly headed for a ballot after a day of bitter debate in which the United States branded Red China an outlaw whose admission would debase the world organization.

The charges put forth by former U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson brought

Red Leader to Visit Farm Wednesday

Iowa Farmer to Give Khrushchev Some Tips

COON RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Iowa farmer Roswell Garst is ready to give Nikita Khrushchev some tips on how to produce more food in the Soviet Union when the Soviet leader visits his farm Wednesday.

But his larger purpose, Garst says, is to help with the task of "selling Khrushchev on an arms inspection plan to get rid of the burden of armaments."

Garst is a hybrid corn expert, livestock raiser, farmer, banker and proprietor of a general store in Coon Rapids—population 1,700—some 65 miles northwest of Des Moines. He met Khrushchev during his several trips to the Soviet Union and he was a guest in Khrushchev's home on the Black Sea last spring.

"You might say I'm constitutionally opposed to hunger," Garst said. "I think a hungry man is a dangerous man and a hungry nation is a dangerous nation."

"Khrushchev's primary interest is to find out why 12 per cent of the people in the United States can produce enough food for the 100 per cent, and with a diet high in the meat type of human protein—and why it takes 50 per cent of the people in the Soviet Union to produce a diet substantially lower in the meat type of protein."

"He is interested in finding out how to produce a better and better diet with less and less people. This is what I basically intend to help him discover."

Garst's home is a rambling white farm house set on a knoll and sheltered with shade trees.

Second Degree Indictment Returned

2 Canton Dragsters Charged With Murder

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Second-degree murder indictments were returned today against two alleged drag racers whose cars were involved in a crash that killed three persons.

Stark County Prosecutor Norman J. Putman said the grand jury felt the two men had "intentionally done an act which killed as a natural and probable consequence."

He said the two—James Bradley Jr., 23, and Ellis Patterson Jr., 26—"formed and executed a plan to propel two projectiles at a speed producing the muzzle energy of 3,000 police revolvers into a congested metropolitan area."

Victims of the crash Sept. 12 were Rocco Serena, 60; his daughter,

Grand Jury Returns Indictments Against 38

USW, Industry Still Deadlocked Over Inflation

Finnegan Calls
Steel Talks Odd Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP)—Top federal mediator Joseph F. Finnegan says the steel strike talks continue to be the oddest kind of negotiations he has ever seen.

Negotiators for the industry and the striking United Steelworkers of America spent less than half an hour Monday on peace efforts. The session was one of the shortest since the strike began 70 days ago.

Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said neither side had anything to report, and he predicted that today's bargaining session would be equally short.

David J. McDonald, president of the union, said in a statement that "I don't want any Taft-Hartley injunction. All I want is a labor contract—a fair, decent, noninflationary contract."

The Taft-Hartley Act gives President Eisenhower authority to force an end to the strike for 80 days. He has indicated he would take such action only if he felt the safety or health of the nation was threatened.

R. Conrad Cooper, top industry negotiator and executive vice president of the United States Steel Corp., called on union leaders to "stop negotiating with their muscles and start negotiating with reason and understanding."

Cooper's comment was in a recorded radio interview beamed to steel plant communities in 16 states.

The strike of 500,000 members of the United Steelworkers has shut down almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel production. It also has idled about 175,000 employees in allied industries.

The union is seeking a substantial wage increase and other benefits in a new contract. The steel companies, seeking a one-year freeze on wages and benefits, contend that any increase in labor costs would force a rise in steel prices and spur inflation. The union denies this.

Pre-strike earnings averaged $3.11 an hour, according to federal government figures.

Patton Says 'Steel' Seeks Quick Accord

CLEVELAND (AP) — President Thomas F. Patton of Republic Steel Corp. said today the steel companies are anxious to end the nationwide strike of the United Steelworkers Union "just as quickly as a non-inflationary agreement can be reached."

Addressing radio audiences in seven steel plant cities, Patton said: "The steel companies want a quick settlement. The strike . . . is costly. It gives foreign steel-makers an opportunity to get a better foothold in our steel market than they now have. It also gives them a better opportunity to take away some of our customers in foreign lands."

He said the steel companies are making every effort to end the strike which began in mid-July "by continuing serious and collective bargaining."

"Remember, it was Mr. (David) McDonald, the union president, who boycotted the negotiations for two weeks," he added.

Explaining why the companies would not agree to making any final settlement retroactive to July 1, although the union would have continued working on that basis, Patton said:

"If any new agreement were made retroactive to July 1, there would have been no reason whatever why the union should be in a hurry to conclude a contract. They

Hike Affects 'E' and 'H' Issues

Eisenhower Signs Bond Rate Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed a bill permitting higher interest payments on government savings bonds. Simultaneously he approved Treasury plans to raise the rate by one-half per cent.

The limited authority to increase the return on the "E" and "H" issues was as far as Congress would go toward meeting Eisenhower's insistent request for complete removal of the ceiling—now 4 1/2 per cent—on all long-term government issues.

In signing the bill Eisenhower said:

"In approving the recommendations of the secretary of the Treasury for a rate of 3 1/2 per cent, I stated."

"To my mind there is no better way of saving, no more effective way of strengthening our power for peace, than to own United States savings bonds."

"To buy these bonds is to express faith in America."

The President has already made it emphatically clear that he will try again when Congress comes back in January. Even as he made ready to sign the bill, Eisenhower told his news conference Sept. 17 that he hopes the new session will "feel the heat of truth" and pass his proposal. He called the refusal CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland News today quoted former National League manager Leo Durocher that he had received a "fabulous offer" to manage the Cleveland Indians next season.

Durocher, the News said, indicated in Pittsburgh Monday night that the deal was complete and that an announcement would be made soon by Frank Lane, general manager of the Indians.

Durocher did not elaborate on details of the Cleveland offer. Joe Gordon, current Cleveland manager, quit last week after a feud with Lane.

Nina Gives Reporters the Slip

Mrs. Khrushchev Sees School, Goes Shopping

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State Department officials helped Nina Khrushchev dodge reporters and crowds Monday for a few hours of calm shopping and a chance to look at a school.

Her day on the town, as a result, was a quiet contrast to that of her husband, the Soviet Premier.

Slipping out of the official Khrushchev motorcade in a sleek maroon car, Mrs. Khrushchev and her small entourage eluded their own local police escort. They were off for more than three hours before newsmen located them. But she was escorted by her own security guard throughout.

Khrushchev Sees Supermarket

Scene In Store
One to Remember

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It was like the happy hour in a manic depressive ward, like the year of the locusts, the bull in the china shop, like the night the dam broke, like crazy, man.

We who were there, doctor, will never again go to a supermarket without seeing red. Blame the phobia on Nikita Khrushchev.

We have been everywhere and done everything with Nikita Khrushchev. We have chased him on planes, trains, cars, boats, motor scooters and by foot.

But the Khrushchev scene that will always wake us up screaming was the one Monday in the San Francisco supermarket.

As always, he came in surrounded by helmeted police, nervous U.S. Secret Service men and sullen Soviet security officers, all fighting off encircling photographers and reporters.

Down the rows of groceries they went with a roar.

Children screamed. Women held up babies to see. Teen-age girls squealed like it was Elvis. Boys in jeans raced around behind and on top of shopping carts. Housewives pushed housewives. Old ladies, swept along in the flood, cackled. "There, there's the Russian, the cute fat one!"

The cops and the security officers pushed. The mob pushed back. Somehow Khrushchev moved forward, relentlessly, like the Volga at flood tide. Smiling, he shook hands, talked with shoppers, questioned clerks, fingered packages of potatoes, oranges and hot dogs, posed for pictures at the meat counter, near the ham.

The mob moved on, cans and jars still flying. A store official scurried behind like a hen racing after chicks gone mad, picking up cans, threatening children with the electric chair, wildly pleading with photographers.

Finally the nightmare ended on the sidewalk. Nikita Khrushchev thanked the manager, saying, "You have a fine store."

It used to be.

"I don't think back on the war period very much," he said. For one thing he's too busy. At 66, the tall, sturdy "doughboy's general" — he weighs only a few pounds more than he did when he played baseball at West Point — is fighting a new enemy—space.

Bradley is board chairman of the Bulova Watch Co. The firm has turned out miniature safety and arming devices for 19 of the nation's defense missile programs.

"At the close of the last war I had to worry about a 600-mile front," remarked Bradley dryly. "Now we deal with problems involving millionths of an inch." "Size is of vital importance because for every added pound of weight in a missile you require several pounds of fuel to get it up," he said.

Although excited by the challenge of space conquest, Bradley observed: "We may have observers out in space, but I can't foresee space armies in our lifetime."

"I don't think we're going to have another war as long as we stay strong enough to act as a deterrent," he said. "The biggest danger is that a brush fire may get out of hand."

"If we don't retain our capability to fight a war such as the last one, we invite more Koreans and Indochinas. The doughboy and the tank aren't obsolete," he said.

It amuses him when he is asked if he found difficult his transition from military commander to civilian business leader. He points out that as the postwar veterans' administrator he supervised a six-billion-dollar annual budget.

"A military organization and an industrial firm are really quite similar," he said.

"There is, of course, one big difference. In one you worry about the lives of your men. In the other you worry about spending the stockholders' money."

Bradley, a friendly, kindly man who was never one to throw his stars around, at the start impressed on his associates "there is no rank during a meeting." He recalled that he was brought up under that belief by his chief, Gen. George C. Marshall.

"He knew that no one man could always have the right answer," said Bradley. "He insisted that if all views weren't expressed, clearly and forthrightly, he might not know the right action to take. He worried if his staff were too often in full agreement. He knew all people couldn't agree."

He likes to play with his four grandchildren. Now and then he gets in a game of golf with President Eisenhower. Once one of the Army's best shots, he still likes to hunt quail, go fishing.

Many of the men who fought under him — and their parents — write to him, and it pleases him to be so well-remembered, for he is a warm-hearted man.

"I'm enjoying life very much," he said.

Cincinnati Police Seek Man's Identity

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police are trying to nail down the identity of a man who died of natural causes in his city jail cell last Sunday.

The man, arrested Saturday on a charge of being drunk, was identified first by Woodrow Spicer of Cincinnati. He said the dead man was his half brother, Roy Hardin Spicer, 42, of Jackson, Ky.

But Ramey Spicer, Terre Haute, Ind., said Monday after looking at the body that it was not his brother, Roy Hardin Spicer.

Common Pleas Judge Louis J. Schneider upheld the jury conviction Monday. Marshall, convicted last Dec. 3, was given a suspended sentence of three months in the workhouse and a $400 fine.

In his appeal, Marshall contended the city law does not square with state law. The state law makes it a felony to knowingly possess smutty literature. The city ordinance leaves out the word knowingly.

Judge Schneider said the city has the right to a law penalizing those who possess indecent literature but don't know about it.

Peace Needs Trust And Respect

If there were mutual respect and trust among all the nations of the world, Premier Khrushchev's dramatic proposal for total disarmament before the United Nations Friday would be regarded as one of the most humane pronouncements in the history of mankind.

But no such respect and trust exist and Mr. Khrushchev knows it. Thus what he had to say is historic and idealistic but not practical in the kind of world we are living in.

Let someone misunderstand Mr. Khrushchev's motives, it should be pointed out that he's not trying to emulate "Alice in Wonderland." He knows the impracticalities of his proposal even as does the West, but he has struck a propaganda blow that is certain to have a strong impact on the uncommitted nations of the world.

THE SOVIET PREMIER may not be a man of war, as his bitterest enemies charge. He may even be a man of peace, as he himself professes. But if the cold war is to end and lasting peace is to come, it must be on his terms. And his terms, as he laid them down rather elaborately and forcefully Friday, simply are not going to work, as much as we wish they could.

Mr. Khrushchev is a politician who delights in the dramatic. Any disarmament proposal short of the all-out liquidation he suggested in the U.N. would not have been spectacular enough for him and probably would have been largely repetitious of a series of such proposals over the last few years.

The Other Side Of Home Rule

David W. Kendall, special counsel on President Eisenhower's staff, made a grand pitch for home rule recently before the delegates to the Ohio Municipal League convention.

There is a real danger, he said, that undue focus on higher levels of government for financial help would dull the local incentive for self-help. He added that this would not be a good trade for local government.

The trouble with his talk was that he didn't go far enough. He failed to mention that the system of pre-emption in our tax setup often leaves local governments with no way to help themselves even if they wanted to.

There is no doubt that local officials, being politicians, are anxious to give their constituents the greatest possible benefits with the least possible pain. They are happy, therefore, to take advantage of any opportunity to spend any home money collected elsewhere.

But the traffic on that street travels both

The delight and joy that could come from complete disarmament would be boundless—if it could be achieved. But the anguish, grief and utter disillusionment that would result from a breach of faith, one nation to another, in such an arrangement could wind up in an arms race that would make the blast furnace by comparison.

Mr. Khrushchev's proposal is new only in degree. In four years he would eliminate the war-making potential of all nations. But there is nothing new about his suggested methods of providing an absolute guarantee of total disarmament. His fuzzy formula for inspection simply does not provide the kind of protection that is vital in a world that is supposed to need no defenses.

ON THE OFF-CHANCE that there may be remnants of sincerity in the Russian leader's plan, it should be studied carefully and diligently through the framework of the United Nations. The free world cannot afford any suspicion of rejection out of hand.

We would hope that some lasting good could come from an exhaustive exploration of all facets of the disarmament problem, whether partial or complete.

But the West doubtless is reluctant to voice any optimism for fear that any new frustration in this delicate, peril-fraught balance of world power would set the cause of real peace back a thousand years, if not forever.

There can be no lasting peace without trust and respect. And that will require a regeneration in the minds of men.

directions. It is frequently true that local officials turn to the state and federal coffers in desperation because the revenue possibilities left open to them will not yield enough money.

Desirable as it may sound, it is folly to suggest that the look-for-loot-elsewhere trend can be reversed before the means of reversing it are provided.

This was the loophole in Gov. DiSalle's veto of the bill to increase the auto license plate fee. It left localities holding a bag empty of funds for streets and roads when no other way of filling the bag had been provided than state rebates.

What it amounts to is that politicians on the higher levels of government are no different from those at the local level. What they are already collecting they don't want to give up.

But until they are willing to give up at least a part of the taxpayers' ante, their local counterparts are not going to have much choice but to keep looking upward for the money they need.

adversary with whom this country has to deal in the Cold War.

Above all his visit to this country should impress upon the American people at first hand what some were willing to accept, only with a grain of salt, from others—that the United States or any other country can't do business with Khrushchev except on his terms.

That lesson alone is worth the many thousands of dollars it is costing the taxpayer to entertain Khrushchev and his entourage in this country.

Let us hope that no untoward incident will take place in the Kremlin while Khrushchev is our guest. It would be a real tragedy if a new storekeeper took over the store in Moscow while he is away and forced Khrushchev and his party on the American public as permanent guests.

Once Over

Waterfront parkers, outdoor movie - lot patrons and lovers' lane occupants everywhere are among those most concerned over Khrushchev's moon smash. Nothing has aroused the young so much.

Couples agree that things haven't seemed the same since the moon was struck. "I've parked in moonlight lots of times," said one Romeo today, "and everything's been lovely but when Russia hit the moon it changed the whole mood. My gal, who is the happiness type, is now all chilled up during moonlight parking. I used to count on collaboration from the moon but it's no help at all lately."

HIS JULIET admits she hasn't felt the call of romance since the cosmic rocket. "Maybe it's all indignation but I can't get over the idea the moon is off form just now. It looks lopsided. It's lost some of its influence," she said.

Outdoor movie lots have been terribly hit. "Ever since the Soviet government hit the moon, my customers have been paying ATTENTION TO THE PICTURES. That ought to show the moon has taken a runout powder," declared one operator. "On moonless nights the customers are just as nervous. They always took the moon for granted, even when they couldn't see it but now the mere fact it ain't shining worries em."

Our Lovers' Lane correspondent hasn't turned in a report yet but he hints that until the United States gets some control of the romantic atmosphere all over America will suffer

IN RETURN for that moon pennant from Nikita, Ike should have said, "Thank you, and some day I hope to give you an American souvenir from the Milkway Way, Big Dipper and way stations."

Mortimer Topblower is the most scared man we've met. "If Khrushchev can shoot an 858-pound shell and hit the moon 235,000 miles way on the button, who can say Moscow can't direct a missile to hit third man from right at a cocktail party in the smallest room of a New York skyscraper?" he demands.

HOWARD GOULD, dead at 88, was the last surviving son of Jay Gould. He had homes in England, France and United States and decades ago his yacht "Niagara" was among most famous in the world.

We just heard of a racing fan who got on the wrong escalator at Aqueduct and claimed he meant to get on the other one but thought it carried too much weight for the distance.

Aqueduct has many luxuries but there is no truth to the story the jockeys ride saddles stuffed with peach fuzz.

They say one toastmaster got a little confused and referred to Mr. Khrushchev as "Mister Mooney."

Why doesn't somebody write a topical song on cosmic flight — "Moonlight and Neuroses"?

Khrushchev Talks About Death

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev sounds like a genial undertaker. The Soviet Premier can tell jokes but he has repeatedly talked of death in one form or another since he came here.

A psychologist might find it gloomy that Khrushchev, who switches from humor to anger in a flash and who has the power to turn the cold war hot instantly, dwells so much on corpses, graves, annihilation, burial and death.

He told the West three years ago "We will bury you," explaining when he got here that he had meant communism would prove itself superior to capitalism. He said he didn't mean the physical act of burying.

Nevertheless, "bury" must be high in his consciousness.

At the United Nations he spoke of the need to bury a dead man—meaning the Formosan government of Chiang Kai-shek—and urged that the "corpse" be carried away.

At one time he mentioned the power of nuclear weapons to take a "terrible toll in human lives" and at another warned they could cause the "annihilation of human beings."

He referred to the colonial system as "moribund," said a question about the Soviet Union's part in crushing the Hungarian revolution was a "dead rat stuck in your throat," and talked of East-West peace as a "question of the life or death of people."

He wondered out loud in Los Angeles if he should commit suicide—this was supposed to be a joke—because he couldn't see Disneyland, and he called for American-Soviet assurance of peace lest the earth be "covered with ashes and graves."

Khrushchev is not a simple man. Now, having elbowed his way to the top of the Communist heap, he is used to having his way without contradiction. That may explain his sudden spurts of anger when he thinks he is short-circuited or affronted.

But there is another possible explanation: that he is a lot less self-assured than he tries to appear. It would be easy, judging from things he says, to consider him arrogant.

But that may be only a compensation for deep-rooted inferiority.

His repeated boasts about Soviet power and his brandishing of rockets, even on this visit, are not the language of a man truly self-confident that Soviet power is acknowledged and respected.

He spends too much time trying to compel respect—too much time at least for a man who firmly believes he has respect.

He is quick-witted. He's tough. But he is impetuous—for example, his bad temper with the mayor of Los Angeles—and this raises questions about his stability and his patient endurance under stress.

This is probably a matter of concern for Western leaders in dealing with him. It's possible he's been putting on an act here, using temper, backed by Soviet power, as a kind of blackjack.

But the temper is there. If Khrushchev's performance so far could be summed up in a sentence, this might be it: he lacks the grace of a man who is really sure of himself.

Yet Khrushchev himself, in talking at the U.N., pointed out how disastrous the instability of one man could be at a time when one trigger-pull on a hydrogen weapon could start a war or destroy a city.

He said then: "The world has reached a point where on the strength of no more than some ridiculous accident, such as a technical fault in a plane carrying a hydrogen bomb or mental aberration in the pilot behind the controls, may translate war into reality."

Red Boss Unmasked

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Khrushchev Proves He's A Dangerous Man

About all that Nikita Khrushchev has accomplished thus far by his visit to the United States is to convince many millions of Americans that he is a dangerous man.

The Soviet premier represents the exposure of his crimes in the court of public opinion. Although he heckled Vice President Nixon in Moscow, Mr. Khrushchev complained bitterly to President Eisenhower at the White House last week about the vice president's speech at the American Dental Association in New York City the day before the Soviet Premier arrived in the United States.

"Czar" Nikita doesn't really want to debate the issues that divide the world. He prates about disarmament and tries to make it appear he is introducing a new approach when, in fact, he is repeating the same old story—he wants disarmament for everybody else but the Soviet Union. He refuses to accept any plan that will factually mean effective inspection of what the Communists would be doing under the proposed agreement to ban armaments. He will never permit the kind of inspection that would insure against cheating.

FOR YEARS, this very subject has been debated in detail and the same proposals and counterproposals have been advanced in the League of Nations and in the United Nations. Now the Soviet Premier benefiting by the attention of a worldwide audience, dramatically cries out for complete disarmament—as if he alone had invented the idea.

He wishes everybody to forget that the Soviet government has repeatedly rejected every sensible plan for even partial disarmament which has been considered from time to time at a series of conferences that were initiated at the summit meeting at Geneva four years ago.

When Mr. Khrushchev cannot get his propaganda across and is asked some searching questions, he becomes offended and irritable. He and his security officers had ample opportunity, for instance, to object to the plans made to omit a visit to Disneyland—an amusement park near Los Angeles.

The customary way, when such things are being arranged ahead of time, is to speak frankly and insist on this or that point. The Soviet Premier did not give the slightest intimation that he wanted to see "Disneyland" after it had been pointed out that it would be difficult from a security standpoint.

Now he bursts forth with a denunciation of the security officials of the State Department. Doesn't Mr. Khrushchev know we have a real security problem in America when a man guilty of tens of thousands of murders visits us?

Doesn't he realize that the relatives of many thousands of persons he has ordered executed live in America and that in their hearts dwell the bitterest resentments?

Someone ought to explain to the Soviet Premier the reasons for the security problem faced by the State Department in arranging for his visit.

When, however, the mayor of Los Angeles attempted to debate even the abstract issue of whether Communism would or would not "bury" capitalism, Mr. Khrushchev let go with a blast threatening to go back home in a few hours.

David Lawrence

THE SOVIET PREMIER is the kind of international bully the world has seen before in the personality of Adolf Hitler. He, too, thought he could cow his adversaries by threats and that there would be no resistance from the West if aggression were begun.

So does Nikita Khrushchev today apparently believe that, by shouting loudly and rattling his missiles and rockets, he can scare the rest of the world into submissively surrendering to his will.

Many bewildered citizens in the United States are asking: "What can be done? After all, we don't want to anger him—he might start a war. Isn't it better to humor him?"

The answer to such questions is made every day as would-be murderers roam our cities. Policemen have found that they must not show hesitation or cowardice and many have bravely given their lives to preserve order.

The moment any nation begins to appease a dictator, he takes advantage of such weakness and misconstrues soft talk for timidity. That's why, in the end, war comes anyway.

The only people who have the final answer today are the Soviet people. They need to be told what Mr. Khrushchev really did in America, what he said and what he refused to say when questions were asked.

The Soviet people already feel the weight of the burdens they are carrying, as the Communist regime concentrates on sending rockets to the moon and thereby wastes money that should be spent to improve the standard of living of the people.

MANY MILLIONS of persons in the Soviet Union reside in overcrowded shacks and unsanitary structures. The average worker is being paid very low wages.

The Communist system is depriving human beings of their liberties which, to most persons, become even more precious than money itself. Inevitably the people of the Soviet Union someday will "bury" Communism.

Only by penetrating the Iron Curtain can the facts be conveyed to the people throughout the Communist empire.

Surely there is enough scientific knowledge available to overcome the "jamming" of radio broadcasts so that the story of liberty and freedom can get across to the people of the Soviet Union and the captive states.

This is of paramount importance because, in time, these people will rise up to rid themselves of the autocratic government that enslaves them today.

The only hope for the world lies in encouraging revolution behind the Iron Curtain. Nikita Khrushchev will not be tamed or eliminated any other way, though for expediency's sake there may for a while be "summit" meetings and "negotiations" to try to "ease tensions."

Meanwhile, the peoples of all nations will continue to live in fear. In the end, only the removal of "Czar" Nikita from power will assure the peace of the world.

Steel Strike Starts Hurting

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The steel strike is starting to hurt. There are layoffs and slowdowns in output of steel users. But even more important perhaps, it is hurting in the planning rooms of corporations where it is regarded as a delayed bomb.

Stocks that may be ample enough to keep plants going for a few more weeks will have to be stretched not only until the strike ends but also over the period that it will take steel mills and fabricators to produce the required kind of steel.

So far there is no public sign that the strike is near an end. Each week it goes on makes it harder for users to plan future production because it often takes weeks to produce a special kind of steel after it is ordered.

The strike hurt some companies and their workers right from the start — coal mines and railroads serving steel mills and their customers.

Now shortages of some special kinds of steel are causing layoffs in some plants of users, even if their over-all supplies seem ample. Steel trading among plants has kept some going.

Some companies have turned to the costly business of converting hot rolled sheets and plates obtained from warehouses into cold rolled sheet to be plated with zinc or lead or tin.

Others have bought foreign steel, even if the price has been rising, and the supply tightening as of Western Europe steps up its own usage by industry.

The Department of Commerce says July imports of steel set a record at 430,000 tons, compared with the previous July's 173,179 tons. Nor eight straight months imports have exceeded exports.

But imbalanced inventories are beginning to get serious, many companies will admit privately. One appliance maker says his company, in effect, is borrowing steel, intended for production of 1960 models to finish off 1959 output of models that are selling well.

One steel authority says it will take some time after the strike for warehouses to rebuild their stocks and says many steel customers are drawing their stocks well below normal levels and must restock.

The strike's effects show up in official government statistics. Most of the available ones are for August and some show the effects also of the auto slowdowns for model changeovers.

But it's the next few weeks, not August, that's worrying businessmen and federal and state authorities. Each week the strike goes on, the farther off will full recovery be.

Hermit Kills Man, Takes Own Life

CHESUNCOCK LOANE, Maine (AP)—A 75-year-old hermit killed a lumber operator, held a heriff's posse at bay for six hours and finally committed suicide Monday night in his flaming wilderness cabin.

The hermit was identified as Hiram Johnson, who for 40 years lived alone in the cabin, subsisting off the land, trapping animals and cutting wood.

Chief Game Warden George Later said Johnson killed Lester Spear, 49, as he tried to get the old man to discuss a complaint that Spear owed him $89 for work and for lumber.

To Members of the Salem Area Republican Club:

Salem Republicans will do well to keep our city in the hands of well qualified candidates for the various city offices at the Nov. 3rd, election.

The Republican candidates meet the requirements.

Do not overlook the fact that in spite of the reverses of last November, "Behind the dark clouds the sun is still shining."

Next Thursday, September 24th, at 8 P. M., a re-organization meeting of Area Republicans will be held in the Memorial Bldg. A new Chairman and other officers will be elected; nominations to be made from the floor.

Government spending and high taxes warrant the active participation of all Republicans in political affairs. It is your concern to accept party responsibility.

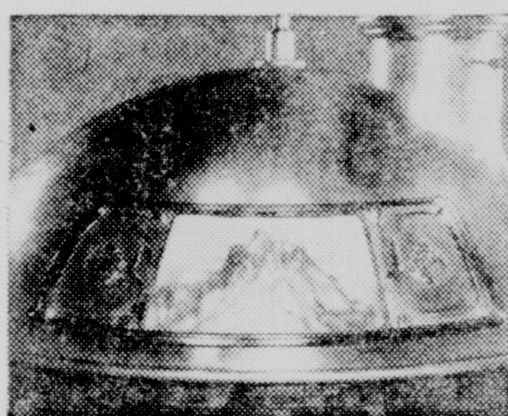

Your presence next Thursday is urgently requested.

How to Get the Best Education For Your Child

College Hopfuls Need Help; Get the Project Started Early

This is the twelfth of 15 articles, condensed from the book, "How To Get the Best Education for Your Child," written by the former education editor of The New York Times and his wife, an educator herself.

By DR. BENJAMIN FINE AND LILLIAN FINE

Most good colleges are overcrowded, they have three or four more applicants for every vacancy. And the situation is going to get worse.

Some prospective students are going to be rejected. Most of them will be ones with inadequate preparation, low test scores, personality difficulties, and lack of drive.

But some will be average or better than average kids who just don't know how to accomplish the increasingly difficult feat of getting admitted to a good college.

Most college-bound youngsters need help. What can you do?

Start thinking about the problem early, especially the financial angle. Banks, insurance companies, mutual funds, and investment brokers all have plans for helping you finance your children's education — if you start early enough.

MAKE SURE your son or daughter really wants to go to college. If, in spite of all your efforts, your youngster doesn't like books and doesn't like to study, if he has not done well in high school, it is likely to be a waste of time and money to send him.

Encourage youngsters to begin thinking about college when they are in junior high school. If possible, invite college students to your home during vacations and get them to talk about their experiences. Visit college camps.

Make sure your youngster is taking the high school courses required for admission.

Encourage him to try the College Entrance Examination Board tests. Several hundred colleges require or "suggest" that candidates for admission try these tests. It costs about $15. Write to Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. for information about them.

It usually is a good idea to take the tests for practice in eleventh grade to find out any weak spots.

Get to know the principal and encourage the youngster to have an interview with him about his college plans. College admission officials take very seriously the information they receive about a candidate from his high school principal.

Marks come first, but extracurricular activities count too. Where competition is severe, such activities may be the deciding factor. However, it's the quality, not the quantity, that counts.

What do you do if your son or daughter receives notice that his application has been rejected by the college that was his first choice? This can be a shattering experience for a youngster who has tried hard and has a good record. Actually, most such rejections are just plain bad luck. If he has a good scholastic record, almost certainly he will be accepted by another college.

What if high school and College Board records are not impressive? If he does have real ability, the trouble may be lack of study skills or just laziness. Sometimes a year at a good preparatory school, where classes are small and teachers stern, will bring him up to college standards.

Sometimes a junior college is the answer. After two years at a good junior college, many students are able to transfer to colleges that have previously rejected them.

What do colleges look for in an application? A study we made recently of 1,000 colleges shows: 1. Grades and rank in class. 2. College Entrance Examination scores. 3. Recommendations from principal or counselors. 4. Personal interview. 5. Extracurricular activities.

PARENTS SHOULD recognize that intangibles also help influence a college's decision. For instance, many admit only a certain number of students from each section of the country.

By the time your children are of college age they are mature adolescents, and should be so treated. Above all, you should instill emotional security, not dependence, into them. More boys and girls fail in college because of an emotional block than for any other reason.

Much evidence exists that children from happy homes will do better work in college or high school than those from emotionally unstable or unhappy homes.

A GOOD COLLEGE should have these qualifications: 1. A good general reputation. 2. Accreditation by the recognized regional and professional groups. 3. A good faculty. 4. Good administrators. 5. Recognition by the honor societies. 6. Strong courses in the field of your child's special interest. The average college cost will range from $2,500 to $3,000.

Some colleges have "work-study" programs that permit a student to earn a good share of expenses. Others have part-time employment bureaus. But lack of money need not deprive a bright, energetic youngster of a college education. Some 15,000 scholarships go begging every year!

This can be a shattering experience for a youngster who has tried hard and has a good record. Actually, most such rejections are just plain bad luck. If he has a good scholastic record, almost certainly he will be accepted by another college.

What if high school and College Board records are not impressive? If he does have real ability, the trouble may be lack of study skills or just laziness. Sometimes a year at a good preparatory school, where classes are small and teachers stern, will bring him up to college standards.

Sometimes a junior college is the answer. After two years at a good junior college, many students are able to transfer to colleges that have previously rejected them.

What do colleges look for in an application? A study we made recently of 1,000 colleges shows: 1. Grades and rank in class. 2. College Entrance Examination scores. 3. Recommendations from principal or counselors. 4. Personal interview. 5. Extracurricular activities.

PARENTS SHOULD recognize that intangibles also help influence a college's decision. For instance, many admit only a certain number of students from each section of the country.

By the time your children are of college age they are mature adolescents, and should be so treated. Above all, you should instill emotional security, not dependence, into them. More boys and girls fail in college because of an emotional block than for any other reason.

Much evidence exists that children from happy homes will do better work in college or high school than those from emotionally unstable or unhappy homes.

NEXT: Starting right at college.

A GOOD COLLEGE should have these qualifications: 1. A good general reputation. 2. Accreditation by the recognized regional and professional groups. 3. A good faculty. 4. Good administrators. 5. Recognition by the honor societies. 6. Strong courses in the field of your child's special interest. The average college cost will range from $2,500 to $3,000.

Some colleges have "work-study" programs that permit a student to earn a good share of expenses. Others have part-time employment bureaus. But lack of money need not deprive a bright, energetic youngster of a college education. Some 15,000 scholarships go begging every year!

Many Ailments Cause Backache

Lumbago is an ancient name used for a low lying backache. It is not really a specific disease and must be considered in connection with backache in general.

Unfortunately, there are an enormous number of possible causes for backache. Some are the results of various forms of arthritis. In some the cause of the backache lies within the abdomen itself rather than in the back itself. Backache may be a symptom of some of the acute infectious diseases, particularly smallpox. It is common during pregnancy, and may result from poor posture.

BONE DISEASES such as tuberculosis or tumors may produce a backache. Fractures in or near the backbone are also responsible at times. Kidney stones, a misplaced womb, injury, nerve diseases, and even disturbances of the glands of internal secretion which manufacture hormones have all been incriminated.

Another cause of backache is a slipped disc or cartilage lying between the vertebrae. Injury can sometimes be responsible. For example, G. W. writes that she had a fall on cement and two years later was told she had arthritis of the spine.

Many other possibilities have to be considered in anyone who complains of severe and long-lasting backache. Therefore, a careful history of what has happened, including when the symptoms began and what makes them worse, must be obtained from each patient. Thorough physical examination not only of the back itself, but also of other parts of the anatomy must be conducted. Laboratory tests including examination of the blood and urine are desired.

able. X-ray studies are essential.

EVEN IF ALL of these tests are made, the cause of the backache may not be discovered. If it is, however, then the treatment is aimed so far as possible at the underlying cause.

When the difficulty is found to be in the back itself, a number of possible ways of treatment are available. Braces or specially designed corsets or supports are commonly used. Physical therapy such as the application of heat or electric treatments may be helpful. Massage or manipulation is valuable in some cases but can be seriously harmful if the backache is the result of such diseases as tuberculosis.

SOME PHYSICIANS advocate injections for a certain kind of backache. In a slipped or ruptured disc, an operation may be needed. Pain in the back is one of the most difficult symptoms on which to base a correct diagnosis. But urate diagnosis is safe masebi yno oy means of accurate diagnosis and properly selected treatments, most patients with backache improve or recover completely.

Final Action Set On Time Change In East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — An effort to pass emergency legislation terminating Daylight Savings Time on Sept. 27 failed at the regular meeting of City Council Monday.

The five Councilmen present approved the legislation at its first reading but passage of an emergency measure is not possible unless six of the seven Councilmen are present.

Final consideration of the matter will be taken at a special Council meeting at 6 p.m. Wednesday. Council is seeking the opinions of the townspeople before making a decision.

If Council doesn't approve the legislation, the city will remain on DST through Oct. 25.

The final reading of an ordinance adhering to the rate proposals of the East Ohio Gas Co. was approved by Council. They agreed to abide by whatever rate is agreed upon in Cleveland, where Cleveland, Youngstown, Akron and Canton are waging a major legal battle concerning the increase.

It was pointed out that any rate agreed upon in Cleveland would not be retroactive, but would apply to the next meter reading following the agreement. Present rates will remain in effect until such time as an agreement is reached.

Teen-Ager Shot at School In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A juvenile gang member's effrontery in going into another gang's territory to date a girl is said to have set off the slaying of a 17-year-old Bronx boy on his high school steps.

John Guzman, a Puerto Rican student at Morris High School, was ambushed outside the school Monday afternoon by eight youths wearing trenchcoats.

Guzman and two companions retreated to the school steps, where Guzman was dropped by a single bullet. He died at a hospital two hours later, after whispering to police: "A blue raincoat — a blue raincoat."

Later police rounded up seven youths and said witnesses identified one, Edward Perez, 17, as the wearer of the blue raincoat. Police said Perez confessed the shooting.

The blue coat, police said, apparently was a badge of leadership in a street gang. All the other youths arrested wore light tan coats.

The youths arrested, and one still sought, were described as members of a gang known as the Royal Knights, composed mainly of Puerto Ricans.

Guzman had been a member of another Puerto Rican gang, known as the Valiant Crowns. But police said that just before he died he insisted he had left the Crowns some time ago.

A short time after Monday's shooting a grand jury returned first-degree murder indictments against seven other Puerto Rican youths in the fatal stabbing of 16-year-olds Aug. 30 on a West Side playground.

The outing, lasting from about 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., took her and the Khrushchev daughters, Rada and Julia, over the famous Golden Gate bridge, through a Chinese section of the city and into the suburbs.

They paused at 2:15 p.m. for a late lunch at Trade Vic's, a swank restaurant often frequented by San Francisco socialites.

It was after lunch that the private journey ended. As the party set out for an hour and a half drive, a 10-car motorcade of newspaper people screeched past red lights and up the steep hills after them.

Suicide Not Ruled Out In Girl's Death

NEW YORK (AP) — A gangplank lashed to a ship's side could have been the actual killer of pretty Lynn Kaufman, who died mysteriously at sea near the end of a long voyage from the Orient.

The gangplank came into the picture as Boston police Capt. Joseph B. Fallon, questioning the crew of the Dutch steamer from which the tiny divorcee disappeared, disclosed here that he was still considering suicide a possibility.

The battered body of Mrs. Kaufman, 23, a brilliant student of the Orient and secretary to a professor, was found in Boston harbor Saturday.

She had disappeared from the passenger-cargo ship Utrecht Friday night just after the ship left Boston bound for New York.

A Boston medical examiner said she drowned but had suffered severe injuries all over her body, including brain injuries, before she drowned.

"The multiplicity of the injuries makes me go to the conclusion that this is a case of violence," said examiner Michael Luongo. "I don't believe they could have been caused by a fall from a ship."

Fallon, however, told reporters here Monday he was not so sure the injuries ruled out suicide.

Then he mentioned the gangplank. He said the heavy plank of metal and wood was lashed to the side of the ship just below Mrs. Kaufman's stateroom.

He appeared to believe she could have smashed into the gangplank as she plunged from the deck.

to do it this year "one of the most serious things that has happened to the United States in my time."

The administration contention is that the limit on interest rates puts the government out of competition with long-term borrowers who will pay more, and forces the Treasury into inflationary short-term financing.

There is no limit on the rate for borrowings of up to five years maturity. Short-term Treasury bills have the same inflationary effect as new money by creating additional credit.

The legislation Eisenhower signed permits him to disregard the present 3.26 per cent limit on the "E" and "H" issues if he finds it in the national interest to do so. But it applies the 4 1/2 per cent limit on how high he may go.

The Treasury has announced it plans to boost the rate to 3 1/2 per cent. The higher rate will make the government bonds more attractive and is expected to stem the high rate of turn-ins.

The Treasury expects to make the new rate applicable as of June 1 on bonds already outstanding as well as new ones. There are some 40 million savings bond holders.

"E" bonds are those bought at less than face value and maturing within a stated period so as to return a set interest rate. "H" bonds are bought at face value and pay interest periodically on that amount.

The 4 1/2 per cent limit on long-term marketable bonds has been in effect since the Woodrow Wilson administration.

Indians, White Sox In One Last Game for Pennant Tonight

Chisox Victory Sews Up Flag

Gordon Calls On Perry In Big One

By The Associated Press
This is it. The Chicago White Sox are at Cleveland tonight for one last game with the Indians, already living on borrowed time. One last game for the American League pennant.

Sure, the White Sox have a 3½-game lead with three games remaining after tonight. But this is one that can do it, the one that can put an end to those 40 fruitless years since their last pennant.

A victory at Cleveland clinches it for the White Sox. A loss leaves 'em hanging. Then they'll have to win two of those last three games—all at Detroit against the Tigers, who took two of three at Chicago last weekend—to be safe.

They could lose tonight and still make it, of course. They can do it by winning just one of their last three should Cleveland drop one of its remaining four—all with Kansas City. And they can do it by not winning any—IF the Indians drop two to the A's.

But who's to say the Indians will lose any if they put this one away tonight?

It's one game for the pennant. And Chicago's pitching job goes to Early Wynn, the Old Man who's been getting the job done all season, winning 20 and losing but 10.

Joe Gordon, the Indians' lame duck manager who could become a living martyr if they pull out the flag, has set up youngster Jim Perry (12-9) for this one. Gordon, posted into a resignation by General Manager Frank Lane, huffed his rotation a bit to bring the right-handed rookie against the White Sox with three days rest.

The White Sox have won 14 of 21 with Cleveland this season. And they're 8-2 at Cleveland, where they hung the Indians up to dry by sweeping a four-game series last month.

Pitching has been the White Sox' answer for Cleveland's power. When the pitching slipped, the Indians shook loose from the noose, winning a three-game set at Chicago 2-1 two weeks ago.

Only two games were scheduled in the majors Monday, and both were in the National League. Milwaukee tied idle Los Angeles for first place with an 8-6 victory at Pittsburgh as Warren Spahn won his 20th and Ed Mathews drove in five runs with two homers. Chicago's Cubs clobbered St. Louis 12-3.

3 of '58's Top Ten Defeated

Big Change Expected In High School Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's sportswriters will begin rating the state's high school grid teams after this weekend's games, and The Associated Press poll is due to reflect a flock of changes.

Three of last year's final Top Ten—fifth-place Cleveland Cathedral Latin, seventh-place Dayton Fairmont, and tenth-place Toledo Libbey—were defeated in their opening contests.

The losses clear the way for new faces to creep into the elite list, but the first four of 1958 should be near the top.

State champion Alliance wheeled away with a 40-0 win over Akron Central, indicating that Coach Mel Knowlton has another powerhouse. Second-place Marion Harding, with Pete Riese, succeeding Coach of the Year Gordon Larson at the helm, swamped Cleveland West 64-14 with a resounding 550 yards on the ground. Springfield's third-place Wildcats turned back Columbus West 42-0, and Massillon's always-close Tigers, fourth a year ago, romped 40-6 over Akron South.

Cathedral Latin was a 25-0 victim of Youngstown Ursuline. Dayton Fairmont dropped a 26-0 verdict to Glen Ellison's Middletown stalwarts, and Toledo Libbey was edged 12-6 by Lorain.

Sixth-place Elyria won 20-0 over Cleveland West Tech, Toledo DeVilbiss (8) won 14-0 over Toledo St. Francis, Youngstown East (9) triumphed 34-6 over Struthers, Parma (11) whipped Cleveland St. Ignace 14-6, Warren Harding (12) was an easy 34-13 victory over Cleveland Collinwood, Salem (13) smothered Cleveland Lincoln 42-0, and Newark's Wildcats (14) eased past Columbus Central 16-6.

Canton McKinley, twice winner of the state championship, got away to a 28-18 win over Cleveland John Marshall for Coach Jim Robinson. Cleveland Benedictine,

Funston, LeBeau Cut By Browns

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ten rookies are on the Cleveland Browns squad that will face the Steelers in Pittsburgh Saturday night to open the regular season schedule.

Two others—tackle Sid Youagelman and end Billy Howton—are new to the Browns but have National Football League experience.

The Browns dropped a pair of rookies — offensive end Farrell Funston and defensive halfback LeBeau to reduce their roster to the required 36-player limit Monday.

LeBeau, Ohio State product, had trouble on pass defense in exhibition play against Los Angeles and the Chicago Bears.

The Browns received good news Monday when medics gave offensive tackle Mike McCormack the green light to begin practice. The team captain suffered a knee injury at training camp and underwent surgery last month.

Three players injured in the Bears game last weekend will be ready for Pittsburgh. X-rays of Warren, Lahr, Jim Shofer and Ray Renfro were negative.

Sydney, Australia—Mike Leahy, 153½, England, knocked out Brian Sheehan, 147½, Australia, 1.

Southerners Haven't Lost To Big Ten

Duke Blue Devils Pointing For Upset of OSU Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Duke University's Blue Devils come to town Saturday with a bigger than usual incentive to knock over Ohio State's titans in the Bucks' opening grid game.

The Devils from Durham, in four shots at Western Conference competition since 1953, have never gone home losers. They've beaten Ohio State, Purdue and Illinois, and tied Purdue. In 1955 they trimmed Ohio 20-14.

Gordon Larson, Ohio's assistant who won accolades as the state's high school Coach of the Year last fall at Marion Harding, received a fast collegiate baptism Saturday as he scouted the Dukes in their 12-7 loss to South Carolina.

"This is a pretty good Duke team," Larson said. "The second string tried a quick kick from its own nine-yard line on first down, saw the kick blocked for a touchdown and that was the difference. Chances are the first team would have gotten away with the kick and won 7-6."

"Duke is tall and big and fast. The defense is fine, with an all-veteran forward wall. The backs are all new, but they can run and pass. We look for a rugged contest."

The Blue Devil first team has players from West Virginia, Ohio, New Jersey, Virginia and Pennsylvania in key spots, along with a half-dozen from North Carolina. The Ohioan is right tackle Jim Gardner, 220-pound stalwart from Portsmouth. Of the first 33 men, 17 are from out-of-state while 5 of Ohio's top 35 are non-Buckeyes.

OSU Coach Woody Hayes, despite weeks of shuffling his greenish talent and nursing various key-man injuries, appears not too worried as the game approaches.

"Basically, we are in pretty good shape," he said. "Bob White at fullback is about the only one who will see only limited duty because of injuries. We may go with Len Fones or Roger Detrick, or maybe Mike Ingram, at fullback—but big Bog will be in there part of the time."

"We'll go pretty tough for a couple of days, then taper off. Duke poses a problem because they've had a shakedown cruise, while we'll be going into this one cold."

Saturday's game, like all others at the Buck stadium this year, will start at 1:30 p.m. (EST), and a crowd in excess of 80,000 is expected.

The word is going around that Ohio may pass more than usual—which wouldn't have to be much—but Hayes is expected to rely mostly on the ground assault which has carried him through nine campaigns.

Duke also features running, completing only two of seven aerials against South Carolina. The Blue Devil halfbacks do the tossing.

Major League Stars

Hitting — Ed Mathews, Braves, drove in five runs with two homers, cracking a 2-all tie and then providing a ninth-inning cushion, for 8-6 victory over the Pirates and tie for National League lead.

Pitching — Glen Hobbie, Cubs, won his 16th, top total for a Cub since Bob Rush won 17 in 1952, with a seven-inning 12-3 decision over the Cardinals.

Oakland, Calif.—Fernando Sota, 119, Portugal, stopped Ward Yee, 120½, Pasadena, Calif. 9.

Philadelphia — Ray Lancaster, 147, Spartanburg, S. C., stopped Whitey Porz, 151½, New York, 7.

Houck Being Groomed As Fields' Substitute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sophomore Ronnie Houck of Troy is being groomed as a replacement for injured quarterback Jerry Fields in Ohio State's football opener against Duke here Saturday.

Fields, however, is expected to be ready for the game.

Guard Paul Martin, out of action with a shoulder injury, also is expected to be healed in time for the Duke fray.

Mathews Drives In 5 As Milwaukee Tops Pittsburgh 8-6

Braves In Tie For 1st In NL

Pizzaro Faces Haddix Tonight

By The Associated Press

Warren Spahn has won 20 again and Milwaukee has barreled into a tie for the National League lead. But don't kid yourself. The Braves' big guy is Ed Mathews. It was Mathews, belting five home runs in four games for a share of the major league lead with 43, who got the job done. The left-handed slugger drove in five runs Monday night with a pair of homers for an 8-6 decision over the Pirates at Pittsburgh that made Warren The Wonder a 20-game winner for the 10th time in a 15-year career. The Braves, winning three in a row and 12 of their last 15, jumped into a tie with Los Angeles for a one-game edge over the San Francisco Giants. Each of the contenders has five games to play.

The Braves are at Pittsburgh again tonight with lefty Juan Pizarro facing Harvey Haddix, the slim southpaw who pitched 12 perfect innings against Milwaukee last May only to lose.

The Dodgers open a two-game series at St. Louis tonight with either Sandy Koufax or Danny McDevitt, both left-handers, going against the Cards' Larry Jackson, a right-handed who blanked Los Angeles on two hits the last time they met.

The Giants start a two-game set at Chicago this afternoon with right-hander Jack Sanford going against the Cubs' Art Ceccarelli, a lefty.

The Cubs clobbered St. Louis 12-3 Monday night in the only other game scheduled in the NL. Mathews tied the Cubs' Ernie Banks, who hit his 43rd at St. Louis, for the home run lead with a two-run shot in the ninth off Bennie Daniels, the Bucs' fourth pitcher. But Spahn, 5-0 against the Pirates, suddenly was in trouble and the Bucs had three runs in before reliever Don McMahon fanned Don Hoak, to end it.

LSU Tops In First AP Poll

OSU Ranked 12; Northwestern 10th

By The Associated Press

Louisiana State, Oklahoma and Auburn are the Big Three in The Associated Press college football poll and "X" marks the spot they occupy in the weekend games.

All three face formidable rivals capable of knocking them into the lower drawer.

The LSU Tigers, unbeaten-undefeated national champions of 1958 and preseason favorites to repeat, are host to Texas Christian's Southwest Conference champions in a game which probably will be rated a tossup.

Oklahoma, No. 2 in the poll, faces Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., in the TV game of the week while Auburn, No. 3, has a date with rugged Tennessee at Knoxville.

LSU, Oklahoma and Auburn, who were picked that way in the preseason balloting, held their positions in the first poll of the season, announced today.

There was a mild shakeup in the lower part of the order because of impressive victories by Clemson and Texas Christian.

Clemson moved to fifth place, just behind Mississippi, after knocking off North Carolina 20-18. TCU usurped ninth on a 14-7 decision over Kansas.

LSU received 64 of the 96 first-place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters and amassed a total of 1,105 points—more than double that of Oklahoma.

The top ten, with total points based on 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.—first place votes in parentheses:

1. Louisiana State (64) ... 1,105
2. Oklahoma (12) ... 506
3. Auburn (6) ... 474
4. Mississippi (6) ... 468
5. Clemson ... 370
6. Southern Methodist ... 262
7. Army ... 248
8. Wisconsin ... 215
9. Texas Christian ... 185
10. Northwestern ... 164

After drawing one personal foul, Richter, 248 pounds, got into a brawl with Pelligrini, 235. It was quickly broken up. But as soon as the game ended, the angered Pelligrini jumped Richter and precipitated a rousing free-for-all.

The Rams lost defensive back Don Burroughs, whom officials tossed out of the fray.

Meanwhile, Coach Weeb Ewbank of the defending champion Baltimore Colts dismissed his team's two consecutive losses.

Personal Fouls Anger Gillman

Browns, Steelers Meet Saturday

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles Coach Sid Gillman—who doesn't pull his punches—doesn't want any more thrown by his rambunctious Rams.

Intimated by the numerous penalties assessed against his operatives as they edged Philadelphia 31-28 in a weekend National Football League exhibition, Gillman tersely cautioned his charges Monday against any repetition of the rough-house tactics that marked the contest.

Gillman said he didn't know what set off the fireworks but "that kind of stuff must be eliminated. We can't win games with severe penalties."

There weren't any pitched battles during the game, but Ram linebacker Les Richter and Eagle linebacker Bob Pelligrini had quite a go at each other.

President to Ask Next Congress for Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower expects to ask an election year Congress to balance the budget, halt indirect financing, lift bond interest ceiling ceilings and overhaul the tax laws.

Outlining this course, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois made it clear he expects Eisenhower to bear down again in 1960 against what the administration calls unnecessary spending. Dirksen summarized his views for publication in the Congressional Record.

On the Democratic side, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said his party will not play politics to the point where its actions would paralyze the divided government. But he made it clear the Democrats will battle what he called the Republican "forces of inertia."

"We cannot agree with the President's view that it is sound to build dams and reclamation projects in other countries but not build them in our own," Johnson told a Democratic rally at Galveston, Tex., Monday night.

Of about a dozen major problems listed by Dirksen for consideration by Congress when it reconvenes in January, nearly half involved financial matters.

The Senate minority leader said action is needed in the fields of general farm legislation, civil rights, education, self-employment retirement, depressed areas and extension of the wage-hour law to cover additional workers.

Friend Files Appeal On Court Decision

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—John P. Friend Jr. has asked for a new trial on charges of embezzlement while he was Clermont County treasurer.

Friend's appeal, filed Monday, contended the jury failed to heed the instructions of Judge Ferd Bader.

A jury last Friday convicted Friend in Common Pleas Court of embezzling $50,951 during a five-month period. Friend, treasurer since 1937, resigned last winter after a state auditor's report indicted shortages.

School Bus Driver Fined for Speeding

CLEVELAND (AP)—Irene Schmidt, 34, of suburban Lakewood, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of driving a car 27 miles an hour in a 20-mile school zone.

Municipal Judge August Pryatel imposed a $5 fine and an automatic 15-day license suspension.

"But, judge, I drive a school bus," said Mrs. Schmidt.

That did it. The judge agreed to suspend the license only for pleasure driving.

ARRAIGNMENT SET

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Helen M. Butler, 62, who retired last April 1 after 17 years as a case worker for the Ashtabula County Child Welfare Board, will be arraigned in Common Pleas Court here Oct. 5 on embezzlement charges. She is free under $1,000 bond. The grand jury returned two indictments charging Mrs. Butler with embezzlement of $1,072 in board funds.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—A Milwaukee woman injured in a traffic accident on the Ohio Turnpike died Monday in Memorial Hospital here. The victim, Mrs. Mary Jane Hahn, 35, was injured Saturday when the station wagon in which she was riding and a tractor-trailer collided 15 miles east of here.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

SAN FRANCISCO — Hidden deep in the documents of labor's giant skull session here is the clue to the strategy of their pile driving campaign to place a trusted political friend in the White House next year. This mass concentration of the nation's labor leaders will demand a Department of Justice investigation of all political spending by thousands of business firms on industry's new national political machine.

This would mean an FBI probe of such corporations as General Electric — most politically active of all firms in the land — Gulf Oil, Sears Roebuck, Johnson and Johnson, Standard Oil and F. W. Woolworth.

These companies are among others specifically mentioned in a special report prepared for the AFL-CIO's third constitutional convention by such national leaders as George Meany, William Schmitzer, Jim Carey and Walter Reuther.

THE SPECIAL REPORT, revealing labor's concern over the sudden success of industry's competing national political operation, says: "The American labor movement will also oppose vigorously the use of corporate funds in an illegal manner in the new political adventures proposed by management. This includes the use of tax-exempt funds for political advertising, as has already been done by General Electric. . . . And it is to be hoped the Department of Justice devotes as much time and attention to business in politics as it has to our activities."

A GE official, reached by this column, said simply that all was strictly within the law — and he retorted that labor's political machine, known as COPE, used millions of dollars of union dues campaigning for national officials.

He pointed to the salaries paid to union leaders and the office, auto and other expenses which were poured out during campaigns.

Other industry spokesmen at the Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers, which have little known political departments, told this reporter that the labor push for a Department of Justice probe was an effort to frighten the businessmen out of competing with the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education.

A GE official reported he believes that many industrialists now think they have the formula for successful political action outside both parties — a tactic first used by the stormy CIO Political Action Committee, launched by Sidney Hillman.

BUSINESSMEN and those trained in the special business political courses have already begun to defeat candidates backed by labor.

The AFL-CIO report here refers to the first such business victories.

They occurred recently in towns in the suburbs of Syracuse, N.Y. — industries' pilot political area. William Johnson, editor of the General Electric News, circulating among 15,000 GE employees there each week, was elected a town trustee, for example.

This is the equivalent of a city council member. This is the forerunner of scores of other direct labor management battles right on the political line next November. With T. V. Arishev Khrushchev romping all over the country, this development will be little noticed here.

That's how it was when Hillman's Political Action Committee was launched in 1943. But this political move by the AFL-CIO convention and the recognition of business's direct jump into precinct politics will be one of the big stories of 1960.

Typical of what has disturbed labor's political strategists, who began meeting here last Tuesday afternoon, is the campaign for the city common council in the Syracuse area of a banker, H. Newcomb Stewart Jr. He is with the First Trust and Deposit Co., according to records here.

This is the first bank in the U.S. to run a seminar for businessmen's "practical politics." This is spreading throughout the United States. It could frustrate the angry labor leaders' effort to punish both Republicans and Democrats who passed the new labor reform act.

THE BUSINESSMEN operate their practical politics inside both parties. By bolstering the more conservative elements in the Democratic party, businessmen could cut heavily into labor's influence at the Democratic National Nominating Convention.

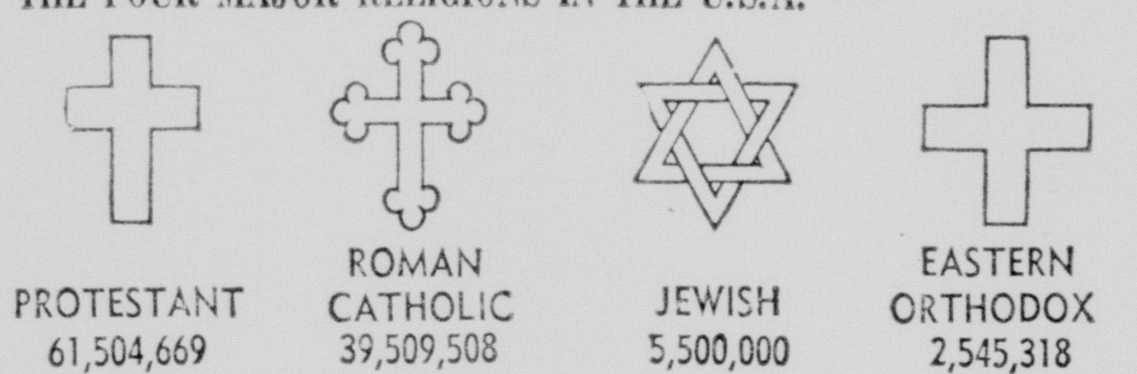

At that parley down in Los Angeles next year, the labor leaders will try to get one of their close friends nominated — and at the moment Missouri's Sen. Stuart Symington leads all the rest in support of labor's private santums in hotel suites here.

Sen. Symington's champion and promoter here is the influential Railway Clerks leader, George Harrison, former delegate to the U.N. He is close to Harry Truman. The two have sat with Symington and discussed strategy.

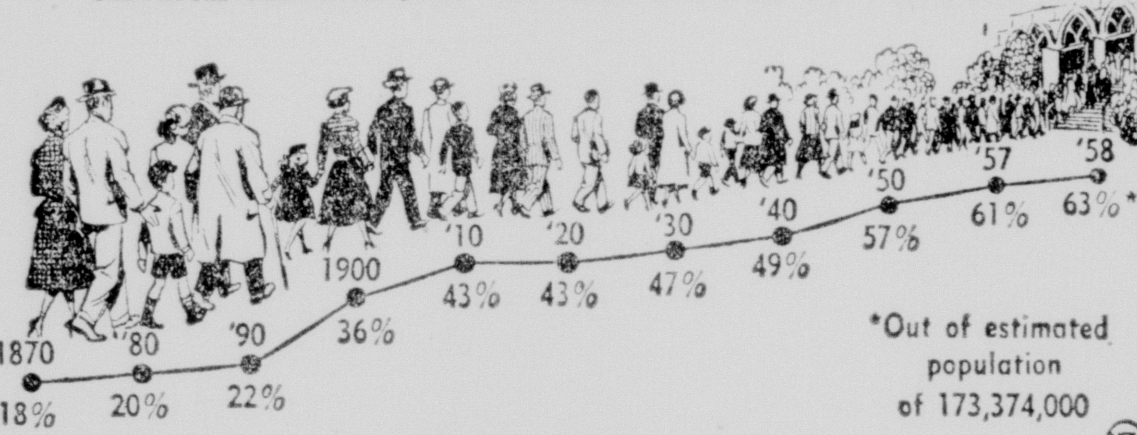

Harrison has told Mr. Truman and the senator he believes the powerful labor delegation would be for the Missourian at the July convention.

There are some differences on this support here. But one thing is certain. If the industry people come in with a string of successful local victories over labor-endorsed candidates, the union people may find themselves with no real friend on the national ticket.

THE FOUR MAJOR RELIGIONS IN THE U.S.A. —

— CHURCH MEMBERSHIP AS PERCENTAGE OF POPULATION —

MEMBERSHIP OF FIVE LARGEST PROTESTANT DENOMINATIONS

BAPTIST (27 bodies)	20,493,381
METHODIST (21 bodies)	12,213,097
LUTHERAN (18 bodies)	7,791,248
PRESBYTERIAN (10 bodies)	4,126,583
PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL	3,042,286

THE RELIGIOUS RECORD — Membership in American churches and synagogues reached an all-time high in 1958. So reports the National Council of Churches in its annual census of 251 church bodies in 49 states. Membership for all faiths, as reported by the churches themselves, was given as 109,557,741 in 1958, a rise of 5 per cent over 1957. Three of the four major religious groups showed increases; Jewish figures remained unchanged. Sunday and Sabbath school enrollment and members' contributions also rose. Money spent for construction or religious buildings was $63 million dollars, which was down 5 million from 1957.

County Seeks Funds For Repairs to Home

LISBON — The Columbiana County commissioners have requested the Common Pleas Court to authorize the transfer of $1,975.18 from the children's home fund to pay bills accumulated in the improvement of the L. M. Keyes home in East Palestine, given to the county as a home for dependent children.

This is the third request made by the commissioners after the court refused to transfer $25,000 from the children's home fund to the general fund for these repairs. In June, $1,644.46 was transferred, and in August, $983.17 was transferred for the payment of bills.

NEEDED FEW DOLLARS

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — This guy apparently just needed a few dollars to carry him over. He held up the Lowell Bybee grocery store last Thursday night and got away with $280. Monday Bybee got back $254 in the mail. The unsigned letter was postmarked Idaho Falls.

Vought Employees To Share Lay Off

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Skilled aircraft workers at Chance Vought's plant have accepted a company proposal to work seven days and lay off seven days. The 250 workers voted approval to the "share the layoff" Monday. Each will take at least a week's unpaid vacation during the next five weeks so some men, with little seniority, will not bear the whole burden of the scheduled layoff.

Special Problems for Special People?

It's Your Pocketbook

By FAYE HENLE
(NEA Staff Writer)

I've had a complaint. Along with you, I'd like to test its validity. Said my complainant: "You writers go to endless lengths to advise and air the problems of average people. You never consider special people whose problems are special."

Who are "special" people? What "special" problems do they have? Widows think they are "special." Yet unfortunately there are millions of them in the U.S.

Women who head households, upon whose earnings or income the support of minor children, an invalid husband or an aged parent depends, consider themselves "special."

Those who have no relatives to whom they might will their worldly possessions feel they are "special."

The truth is that no matter how average we are, once we are faced with a problem, we tend to believe that we are unique. If you'll just stop tagging yourself "special," I'll promise half of whatever problem faces you will be licked.

EVERYDAY I HEAR from widows. Some have braved the world alone for years. Others are meeting a new situation. Unless a widow is gainfully employed, one of her great difficulties today is to make her fixed income buy the goods and services she needs and wants. If you are faced with this problem, remember there are millions suffering the same plight and the best advice I can offer is this:

Don't air your problems with everyone you meet hoping someday someone will produce the magic formula of solution. Instead, decide for yourself what it is you want and what you can afford. Then find a single reputable counselor, preferably someone professional, to whom you can give trust and understanding. Map your goal and methods of achievement with him. Find out how you can learn how to manage your own affairs, insurance, investments, real estate so that together you can recognize and solve your problems.

If you are the head of a household, take heart. What you must do is to review your situation with an eye to setting up two separate financial programs. The first should be to protect you and those dependent upon you should anything happen and you would no longer be able to work. The second is a program for your retirement.

YOU MUST CONSIDER what future assets you'll be able to count upon and the possible future status of those who today depend upon you. When you separate these two facets of your life and get your plans on paper you'll be able to better appraise what you've got, what you'll get and what you'll need. Then you will feel much less "special." Millions of women before have done this.

Don't fret, you who query: "Whom shall I leave my money to?" I can offer two suggestions: investigate the multitude of long-term medical research programs underway and the needs of educational institutions. Then, depending upon how much money is involved, choose one or two of these. Remember a great deal more can be accomplished with a larger sum than by spreading your bounty too thin. Remember too that gifts such as these are not taxable to your estate.

Of course I've touched on but a few of the "special" people. Hit me with some more, challenge the solutions I attempt to offer, but never lose sight of the fact that really there are millions of others no more "special" than you.

Her JUICY APPLE PIE changed his whole outlook.

Union Chiefs To Meet On Peace Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The biggest labor union story in years is developing today—and it has nothing to do with the California stopovers of visiting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

It is an historic agreement between the top leaders of the biennial AFL-CIO convention to submit disputes between rival unions of whatever character to arbitration, putting conflict up to the decision of an outside neutral.

The pact, worked out by federation leaders, demonstrates a new solidarity among labor chief in the face of what they view as a mounting businessmen's battle to weaken or exterminate labor organizations.

So convinced are the AFL-CIO leaders that they have found the solution to burying their conflicts and solidifying labor forces, they plan to hold a special convention next year to implement the peace plan.

A convention next year could have political implications. Normally the next AFL-CIO convention would be held in 1961.

A closed meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council Monday night ratified in the record time of 20 minutes a plan to solve inter-union strife that has plagued rival organizations for years and drained them of financial resources. There was no discussion.

Basically, the plan requires unions involved in any sort of dispute with a rival—over job right jurisdiction, raids between unions, boycotts of rival union products, or even organizing ethics—to let an outside, neutral judge as to which one is right.

Each dispute would be decided on its own merits, without setting a precedent.
